Receptive to Ideas

Twenty-Seventh Sunday in Ordinary Time

And people were bringing children to him that he might touch them, but the disciples rebuked them. - Mark 10:13

The disciples assumed they knew what Jesus wanted and needed. Consequently, they decided the children would distract from his teaching and tried to shove the young ones away. So convinced were they about this false idea, they even went so far as to scold the adults who were bringing the children. How surprised the disciples must have been when they heard Jesus encourage the little ones to come to him. This situation reminds me of how I, too, can misunderstand and presume what God desires. This happens when I insist on my plans and endeavors going the way I want them to, in spite of evidence to the contrary. When the day fills with disruptions and disturbances, that is when I am called to go beyond my presumptions and consider the fact that the Spirit might have something else in mind. I cannot assume my ways are God's ways just because I have decided what I want.
