Workers in the Field

"The harvest is indeed great, but the labourers are few." (Luke 10:2)

As Christians, everything we do in the public is a testimony to our faith in our Lord. When shopping, visiting the doctor's office or at work, the way in which we dress, act and speak to others, or our activities online — are they examples of how a disciple of Jesus would live? He has told us the harvest is great, and the labourers are few.

If we are truly following Christ, we are supposed to be among His labourers, helping bring souls into the Kingdom. Is our example a help or a hindrance in harvesting souls? Do we pray for the souls of others? Are we trying our best to help others come to know Jesus? Do all of our actions in life bring glory to God? (Fr. Charles)
