CHRISTIAN MEDITATION

There are as many and varied methods of meditation as there are spiritual masters. Christians owe it to themselves to develop the desire to meditate regularly, lest they come to resemble the three first kinds of soil in the parable of the sower. But a method is only a guide; the important thing is to advance, with the Holy Spirit, along the one way of prayer; Christ Jesus.

Meditation engages thought, imagination, emotion, and desire... Christian prayer tries above all to meditate on the mysteries of Christ, as in lectio divina or the rosary. This form of prayerful reflection is of great value, but Christian prayer should go further; to the knowledge of the love of the Lord Jesus, to union with him. (Catechism of the Catholic Church, nos. 2707-2708)

What is lectio divina?

Spiritual reading of Sacred Scripture, especially the Gospels, is an important form of meditation. This spiritual reading is traditionally called lectio divina or divine reading. Lectio divina is prayer over the Scriptures. The first element of this type of prayer is reading (lectio). You take a short passage from the Bible, preferably a Gospel passage and read it carefully, three or more times. Let it really soak-in.

The second element is meditation (meditatio). By using your imagination enter into the Biblical scene in order to “see” the setting, the people, and the unfolding action. It is through this mediation that you encounter the text and discover its meaning for life.

The next element is prayer (oratio) or your personal response to the text; asking for graces, offering praise or thanksgiving, seeking healing or forgiveness. In this prayerful engagement with the text, you open yourself up to the possibility of contemplation.

Contemplation (contemplatio) is a gaze turned toward Christ and the things of God. By God’s action of grace, you may be raised above meditation to a state of seeing or experiencing the text as mystery and reality. In contemplation, you come into and experiential contact with the One behind and beyond the text.

(“Meditations”, United States Conference of Catholic Bishops)

"THE BLESSING CORNER"

With so much negativity and discontent right now, we sure could use some uplifting news. A new baby, grandbaby, a child's accomplishment, or just a sweet story. Please share your happy news or accomplishments with your church family.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"I love You, O my God, and my only desire is to love You until the last breath of my life. I love You, O my infinitely lovable God, and I would rather die loving You, than live without loving You. I love you, Lord and the only grace I ask is to love You eternally...My God, if my tongue cannot say in every moment that I love You., I want my heart to repeat it to You as often as I draw breath.:
